D Sick Headache Remedy.—A remedy for the sick headache, which has been recently offered to the public, is attracting great attention, not only by reason of the very satisfactory testimonials to its efficacy which have been volunteered by many who have been benefited by it, but also because there are so great a number of people who are afficted with the distressing complaint, for which no medicine has before been made public. Dr. Eastman, who discovered the efficacy of his "remedy," is a physician in this city, in high standing, with a large practice. He is a physician in whom great confidence is placed; and we do not wonder that his remedy for a very common disease, which has been so long needed, has attracted the attention of all sufferers from headache who have heard of it. From our own knowledge of Dr. Eastman's char acter and practice, we have no doubt that the med-Sick Headache Remedy.—A remedy for noter and practice, we have no doubt that the medicine deserves the favor it receives, and that it will prove to be a great benefit to all who may give it a trial.—Lynn News, December 23, 1853.

Ag-Stimulating Limiment, as prepared at Gilman's drug store, is deserving of the highest commendation as a cure for Chronic and Acute Rheumatism. It seldom, if ever, fails to give speedy and permanent relief. This Limiment has been prepared by Z. D. Gilman, chemist of this city for many years, and since its introduction has been extensively used by many of the most respectable families in the District and vicinity, to whom reference can be made at any time as to its magical effects in curing Rheumatism, even in elderly persons, who had been sufferers for a long time. It was originally made for horses, for the cure of lameness, saddle galls, &c., and is now much used for such purposes, being an invaluable article wherever a Liniment is required either for man or beast.

Mocal and Dersonal

The Late Election.-This subject formed a prominent topic of conversation in all circles of the city on Monday, but unaccompanied by the loud talking and violent gesticulations which so characteristically marked the canvass.

There was a good deal of betting on the genera esult, and not a few hats and dollars were lost and won.

Some wags in the seventh ward amused them elves by circulating tickets headed with the name f a well-known "Beau" for mayor, and with andidates less worthy for the other officers to be voted for; but none of the papers found their way

Several gentlemen of our acquaintance are on he invalid list, owing to their being pressed and wedged—the sun broiling them meantime—in the two-abreast line of "sovereigns" moving slowly ip to the ballot-box in turn to vote. Mr. Towers, the mayor elect, is the fourth rinter who has been elevated to that office during the last thirty-two years. A young man at one of the polls, who knew nothing, or very little, squarred himself for a fight on hearing an outside vigilance man exclaim challenge," (as applicable to the vote und not to the voter.) An explanation healed the sovereign's

It is pretty well understood that the "know nothings " (whatever may be their real name) have elected nearly all of their candidates to the city councils, in addition to their mayoralty triumph.

Naturalized Voters.—The commissioners he recent election kept separate lists, at the several polls, of all voters naturalized since the thirtyirst of December last, so that if the election should turn on those votes there might be an opportunity of testing its validity. The corporation attorney, J. M. Carlisle, esq., recommended this course, a question having arisen as to whether a toreigner whose name was not on the corporation books during the year ending the thirty-first of December, as subject to the school-tax, and who had been naturalized since, was entitled to vote. The comnissioners placed native young men arriving at age, and foreigners naturalized, after that date, hether or not on the poll list, upon the same footing. As the result of the election could not be affected by admitting such votes, they were all counted in the summing up; and so no opportu-nity will at present be afforded for testing their Chesapeake and Ohio Canal .-- At the meetng of the stockholders of the Chesapeake and Dhio canal, held in this city on Monday, Samuel Hambleton, of the Eastern Shore of Maryland, was elected president, and the following named gentlemen directors: Norman Bruce, William B. Clarke, A. B. Hanson, James Fitzpatrick, and Robert Wasson, of Maryland, and George H. Smoot, of Alexandria, Virginia. The salary of the president was fixed at $2,500 per annum. Mr. R. W. Latham, of this city, with a view of elevation to that station, proposed to serve one year without compensation, to visit every point on the ine once a month, if health should permit, to increase the tonnage, and reduce the expenditures, or forfeit $20,000; but the stockholders laid his communication on the table.

A Mistake.- In expeditiously arranging the able of returns for mayor, at the close of the recent election, we made an error of just one hundred votes in Mr. Towers's majority in the Sixth ward. With this correction, his aggregate majo-rity in all but the first and second wards, is 544 laury's in the two others is 106. The majority of Mr. Towers over Mr. Maury was, however, correctly stated-436. The official returns may vary this result a few votes, but we doubt not that near enough for all practical purposes

Accident .-- On Monday afternoon, at the time the fire on Seventh street, our fellow-citizen, Mr. H. H. Heath, was much injured. He was tanding near the Patriotic bank, when, to escape rom the presure of a crowd which had been driver to the sidewalk by the alarming movements of an engine, he stepped over the railing enclosing a easement area, with a view of placing his feet on the coping. But he slipped and fell to the ground, a height of about six feet : thus receiving a contusion of the head and a strained wrist. We are pleased to learn that he is in a fair way of recov-

Finale of the Boston Slave Case. The following incidents of the departure of the fugitive Burns from Boston is from the Boston Transcript, which, while it pretends to give an impartial statement, has an evident leaning to the side of the violators of the law and the Constitution :

Soon after the decision, Richard H. Dana, jr., esq., (Burns's counsel,) and Rev. Mr. Grimes, (pastor of the colored Baptist church,) had an interview with Burns, and took their final leave.

As Wendell Phillips and Theodore Parker were leaving the court-house, some one in the crowd cried out, "There go the murderers of

Of the volunteer guard of the slave in the Of the volunteer guard of the slave in the procession, the Atlas thus speaks: "A body of some one hundred and twenty-five individuals, (we cannot call them men,) who had offered themselves to the marshal for duty, were drawn up in the form of a hollow square, in the cen tre of which was the poor fugitive, the United States marshal and his officers. They were armed with pistols and drawn cutlasses. This body-guard was composed of the dregs of society; nearly all were black legs and thieves, most of whom have been or ought to be inmates of our prisons."

of our prisons." The procession went down State street to Long wharf at a quick step, all the way receiving the groans and hisses of the indignant people, not the least emphatic of which proceeded from the steps of the Merchants' Exchange, where it being high change, a great number of our first men were congregated.

Such a crowd as pressed on the sidewalks of State street, we never before saw in Boston. At Commercial street, the procession turned off, and proceeded down that street, on the back side of the Long wharf to T wharf. The suddenness of the turn, which could not have been anticipated, caused a great crowd at the corner; they attempted no violence, but those in front were pushed on by those behind.

As the column passed the commonwealth sion was saluted with a shower of cayene pep per thrown from the Commonwealth building A bottle containing liquid, supposed to be sul phuric acid, was thrown from the Common wealth building, but it struck the pavement was dashed to pieces, and its contents harmed

Near the corner of Chatham and Commer cial streets, a teamster attempted to pass the line formed by company A, Boston artillery. He was ordered back, but refused so to do, and swore at the military. One of the company thrust a bayonet into his horse, whereupon the crowd pressed in to see what was the matter. Probably, supposing that they intended an attack, Captain Evans gave the order to his company to lire. The muskets were crought to the shoulders, when Lieut. Colonel Boyd, who accidentally was near enough to hear the order, countermanded it, and thereby prevented the fatal result which must have followed. The

A horse belonging to a member of the corps of lancers, who was ou duty in Commercial street, was fatally stabbed in the side by some

The dragoons had a difficult task to perform as it devolved on them to keep the crowd from pressing into the street, but they discharged their duty firmly and faithfully. One man, named John M. Clark, from Vermont, being ssmewhat excited, undertook to assert his pre-taken by the police to station No. 1, where medical aid was procured for him.

A gentleman connected with the evening press of this city, had been to the custom-house on business, and was returning to his office, when he was stopped by one of the soldiers on duty. He told his business, but was refused a passage: he again attempted to move along passage; he again attempted to move along when the soldier thrust his bayonet at him. It went through his shirt collar, and grazed his neck, causing a slight flow of blood. At this time a policeman came up, and politely passed the gentleman through the lines.

The marines on Long wharf were assaulted with missiles thrown by the mob, but the order of "aim" was effectual in scattering the assemblage. The artillery were soon after assailed from a new building, with bricks and mortar. A detachment charged upon the building, and cleared it of its inmates at the point of the bayonet.

Several arrests were made during the day for disturbing the peace; among the persons committed to the station-house was William Jones, colored, one of the witnesses for the defence, and W. H. Bass; the latter was armed Burns was lodged on board the steamer John Taylor, at T wharf, and taken directly into the cabin, out of sight of the immense multitude gathered on the wharves and shipping. A large number of sailors vented their indignation at the proceedings by most vigorous and long-continued groans and hisses.

At 20 minutes past 3 o'clock the steamer left the wharf, and proceeded down the harbor to the revenue cutter Morris, which had been previously towed down to the castle.

The cutter Morris passed the outer station at half-past four o'clock, and at sunset was ten miles east of the outer station, with a light outherly breeze. In the evening General Edmands and other officers of the brigade partook of a collation at the Albion. His honor the mayor was pre-sent, and gave a sentiment complimentary to the military, for the fidelity and promptness with which they had discharged their difficult and arduous duties.

The conduct of a portion of the military, says the Chronicle, is open to severe censure it was indecorous, unsoldierlike, unmanly, and in some cases even brutal. Some of the panies, we are happy to state, conducted them selves in the most praiseworthy manner, but the conduct of others will tend, and in no small degree, to bring odium on the volunteer militia, and, unless they look well to their acts hereafter, they will fall in the public estima-tion as rapidly as they have risen within a few

We learn that John H. Pearson, esq., the lessee of Long Wharf, refused to allow that wharf to be used for the removal of the slave. The wharfinger of T wharf, who let those premises for the business without consulting the proprietors, was promptly discharged last evening, but was this morning provided with a place in the custom-house.—Boston Transcript.

BODY SNATCHING EXTRAORDINARY. - The Elgin Palladium, of the 18th, has the fellowing account of some events which transpired at Naperville, after the execution there of Doyle on the 12th.

"After his execution, a most disgraceful scen "After his execution, a most disgraceful scene took place between certain physicians and others in relation to the body of the murderer. After the execution, the body was delivered to the sexton, under his solemn and repeated agreement to bury it properly. He proceeded with a physician and his student to the bury in ground where gravely and the processory. dug, and lowered the coffin into it, and then pretended to have some business off at a distance from the grave. The first party coming back, and find ing their body gone, very naturally concluded that the body was in the woods near by, and aid in watch. As soon as it was dark, as was anticipated, the second gang came with their wagon to take the body away. It is said that knives and pistols were drawn, and threats made, but they did not go so far as to use them; and the disgraceful row was ended by the first party buying the pretended right of the other, and took the body to Naperville. About 11 o'clock the same night, another set of medical marauders from Chicago entered the graveyard and opened the grave, but finding nothing but an empty coffin, they were saved the infamy of Poor OLD PRIMUS .- The selectmen of Northampton sent, last week, the paupers in town, who are entitled to a support from the Commonwealth, to the State alms-house at Monson; and among them was "Old Primus," a colored man, who, according to the best information, is at least one hundred years old. He has resided in town from a period of time to which the memory of few can recur, but yet had not gained a "legal residence." Poor old man! he disliked to leave the dwelling-place of so many years, and we almost wish that the seectmen could have felt justified in allowing im to enjoy the charity of the town for the remnant of his days. But he has had the satisfaction of taking his first ride upon a rail-road, and we commend him to the kindly conideration of the accomplished superinten of the State institution .- Hampshire Gazette.

Cholera on the Mississippi.-We regret to state that the choicra has suddenly made its ap-pearance in our city. We have taken pains to in-quire into the number of deaths, and from autic sources we have reports of sixteen since Saturday morning, previous to which we hear of no cases. Last week there were some fifteen inderments at the city cemetery; of these, four were of persons who died of cholera morbus. The weather for two weeks past has been favorable to the development of diseases of this type—quite warm with showers of rain almost daily—similar weather to that which prevailed for a time in 1840, uring the cholera season.

Heretofore, the disease developed itself slowly and appeared, at first, in certain localities in the outskirts of the city; but the cases which have reoutskirts of the city; but the cases which have re-cently occurred were confined to no particular quarter of the city. In 1850, it did not begin to prevail to a serious extent, although occasional cases had previously occurred, until towards the latter part of June, the interments for the 19th, 20th, and 21st of that month being thirteen.

We would remind our readers of the impo ance of prudence in diet, and of serenity and co osure of mind; above all things, they should no posure of mind; above all things, they should not give way to alarm, the evil consequences of which are disastrous. Nor should they give heed to every rumor they hear. We shall keep them advised of the true state of things.

A list of the deaths (fourteen in all) is reported as having been produced by cholera.

[Nashville Whig, of the 1st.

From the Cincinnati Times, of 2d. Cholera on the Ohlo.-We have heard of sev eral cases of cholera in the city, nearly all of which proved fatal. In the neighborhood of St. Paul's church, in the ninth ward, four persons have died in one house; and deaths have occurred in other parts of the city. All the cases so far as we have heard have been among foreigners, who were very careless as to their habits of living, and they are not by any means any cause for alarm.
